LAS VEGAS (March 6, 2014) – For the 18th year, dealers from more than 20 countries will gather in Las Vegas for the Las Vegas Antique Jewelry & Watch Show. The event is hosted by U.S. Antique Shows, the world's leading producer of indoor antique shows, May 29 - June 1, 2014 at the Paris Hotel and Casino.

"We're thrilled to continue to host our event in Las Vegas and acquaint the trade community with today's latest jewelry trends," says Dan Darby, Emerald Expositions vice president and U.S. Antique Shows group show director. "We've made some notable improvements this year like refiguring the show's floor plan to allow dealers an increase in booth size to showcase more of their merchandise."

Items include gold chains, retro watches, cuff bracelets, colored diamonds, floral statement pieces and more. Attendees will also be able to purchase an array of merchandise from the Renaissance to Modern periods.

Prominent dealers from as far away as France, India, Netherlands and Singapore are just a few represented at this year's show. Anshul Rakyan, director of the Germany-based antique jewelry and fine gemstone house, Global Gems, comments on being part of the Las Vegas Antique Jewelry & Watch Show.

"We have been exhibiting at the Las Vegas Antique Jewelry & Watch Show for almost two decades. It's a great meeting point to meet American clients as well as other dealers from around the world," says Rakyan. "Our signed jewels as well as European antique jewelry and object of arts will be a highlight for this year. Furthermore, our collection of natural pearls and old-cut diamonds is always something special. We are looking forward to Vegas."
